What is our legal basis for processing your personal data?

a) Personal data

We process your personal data in pursuit of our legitimate interest in fulfilling the purposes set out in 'The categories of personal data concerned' set out above.

Whilst we rely on legitimate interest as the legal basis for processing, where this is not overridden by the interests and rights or freedoms of the data subjects concerned, we recognise that it is not the only lawful ground for processing data. As such, where appropriate, we will sometimes process your data on an alternative legal basis – for example, because you have given us consent to do so, or to fulfil contractual obligations we may have when you request services from us.

We may also need to disclose your information to a third party if required by law (for example to government bodies and law enforcement agencies), including for the purposes of investigating a complaint, or if we have your permission to do so.

b) Special categories of personal data

To the extent we process your special categories of personal data, in addition to pursuing our legitimate interest in fulfilling the purposes set out in 'The categories of personal data concerned' set out above, we have obtained your explicit consent, or it may be necessary for reasons of public interest in the area of public health. (Further information on lawful processing can be found on the ICO website).

Sharing your personal data

Your personal data will be treated as strictly confidential.

Please note, however, that we may need to disclose your information to a third party if required by law (for example to government bodies and law enforcement agencies) or where we have your permission to do so, for example, for the purposes of psychometric profiling such as DiSC, the Myers Briggs Type Indicator or similar.

How long do we keep your personal data?

We keep your personal data only as long as is necessary for the purpose(s) for which it was collected (unless otherwise advised) and in accordance with our administrative records retention schedule and as required by HMRC. Data will be kept securely and destroyed when no longer required.

Providing us with your personal data

We require you to provide us with your personal data in order for us to fulfil the purposes set out in 'The categories of personal data concerned' described above.

Your rights and your personal data

Unless subject to an exemption under the GDPR, you have the following rights with respect to your personal data. The right to:

- Request a copy of the personal data which we hold about you.
- Request that we correct any personal data if it is found to be inaccurate or out of date.
- Request your personal data is erased where it is no longer necessary to retain such data.
- Withdraw your consent to the processing of your special categories of personal data at any time, where consent was the lawful basis for processing such data.

- Request that we provide you with your personal data and where possible, to transmit that data directly to another data controller, (known as the right to data portability), (where applicable i.e. where the processing is based on consent or is necessary for the performance of a contract with the data subject and where the data controller processes the data by automated means).
- Request a restriction is placed on further processing, where there is a dispute in relation to the accuracy or processing of your personal data.
- Object to the processing of personal data, (where applicable i.e. where processing is based on legitimate interests or the performance of a task in the public interest/exercise of official authority), direct marketing and processing for the purposes of scientific/historical research and statistics).
